

Photo © Jack Mitchell

Alabama Types: Poets, Playwrights & Storytellers
An Exhibit at the UA Gallery, November 2 to December 7

With UA Theatre & Dance as a primary sponsor and Grantee of the Alabama Humanities Foundation, a state program of the NEH

Featuring the Steve Soboroff Typewriter Collection arranged for traveling exhibition by The Southern Literary Trail and with campus partners in the English Department and UA Gallery

The Steve Soboroff Typewriters

*George Bernard Shaw
Ernest Hemingway
Tennessee Williams
Gore Vidal
Truman Capote
Maya Angelou
Ray Bradbury
Tom Hanks
John Lennon*

The University of Alabama Exhibit Supplements

*Tennessee Williams original painting
Lillian Hellman's typed correspondences
Harper Lee's Typewriter
William Bradford Huie's Typewriter
James Haskins's Typewriter on loan by U of Florida*

Exhibit hours in the UA Gallery within the Dinah Washington Cultural Arts Center: M-F, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except holidays.

Events and Programs with Free Admission for Faculty, Students and Public:

Friday, November 2. Exhibit opens on First Friday with docents from the Improbable Fictions troupe, organized by Steve and Deborah. UA Gallery downtown. Arts Center Bar service begins at 5 p.m.

Sunday, November 4. An Alabama Live Read of the film script to Truman Capote's "Breakfast at Tiffany's" Exclusively authorized by the Truman Capote Literary Trust and Paramount Pictures and Performed by Theatre & Dance Students directed by Annie Levy. Dinah Washington Cultural Arts Center. Exhibit opens at 1 p.m. "Tiffany's" read begins at 2 p.m.

Tuesday, November 6. A Bama screening of the documentary film "California Typewriter" with filmmaker Doug Nichol for Q&A in the Greensboro Room, organized by Creative Writing. 7:30 p.m., Bama Theatre.

Thursday, November 8. Steve Soboroff visits the UA campus and the Gallery as our guest artist.

Monday, November 12. Annie Levy directs "Is My Verse Alive?" written by Steve Burch and starring Kelley Schoger as Emily Dickinson and Kyle Chesney as Tom Higginson. Dinah Washington Cultural Arts Center at 6:30 p.m. Exhibit remains open until showtime. This event is co-sponsored by The Hudson Strode Program in Renaissance Studies.

Sunday, December 2. Reading by Theatre & Dance of Truman Capote's "A Christmas Memory" for the Tuscaloosa Main Library Holiday House. Between 3 and 4:30 p.m. Specific time to be announced.

Friday, December 8. Closing First Friday.